Errors at Critical Stages Re sponsible for Defeat-Ends in Batting Rally.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
DANVILLE, VA., June 21.—In a game marked by very ragged fielding on both sides, Danville wrested the first of the series from Richmond to-day, Mayberry and Walker, the opposing twirlers, were in good form, and each would have showed up more creditably with better support.

While the errors of Richmond netted the Red Sox more runs, they were no worse, and if there was any difference in the degree of the fielding, the Colts had a little the best of it. Of the six hits secured off Walker, no two of them came in the same inning. Mayberry, during the first seven innings, pitched a magnificent game. During that time he allowed but three hits, and two of these were scratches.

Danville scored four runs in the following manner: In the first inning King took three bases on Walker's wild throw over first, and scored on Fisher's sacrifice fly to centre. In the second linning Magee singled and stole second. Sille-Sullivan Messitt. Time of game, It.40. Umpire, Henneger. Attendance, 1000.

Comment on the Game

Think of it! Pitcher Dickinson, who was cast off by Mannager Lipe without a public trial, goes to Lynchburg and roored when ison made a bad throw to first in an effort to complete a double, sending Westlake to second. Sille ford was given transportation in the fourth, was sacrificed by Magee, took third on Reinhart's out, and scored on Westlake's single?

In the eighth inning Fisher hit for three Sacks and scored on Stafford's the game vesterday. The Danville

No use blaming Walker for losing that game yesterday. The Danville sporting writer takes mighty little credit to his team when he comes right out with the plain statement that rank fielding brought victory to the Bugs. Three errors in a game are too many if we expect to land the flag again.

Revelle and Kelfel went to Danville together yesterday. They will probably be the battery to-morrow. Kelfel's ownership is still a matter of doubt, but it is barely possible Portsmouth will land him. The National Commission, hasn't been asked about the matter yet. It's up to them to settle such disputes.

Norfolk took a fall out of Roanoke yesterday and jumped over the Colts to third place. Danville is at the top again. How long can such conditions last? Certainly not for a season. 7t

NORFOLK, VA., June 21.—In a sharply contested game, full of ginger and flery kicking against the decisions of Umpire Evans, in which both teams played a prominent part, Norfolk captured the opening game of the series from Shaughnessy's Roanokers, by the score of 2 to 2. The Tigers lost because Hale, the first man sent to the firing line, was ineffective and was touched up at a lively rate. It was while he officiated that the Tars garnered in their three runs. Reynolds succeeded Hale and had the Tars guessing. Although they hit him freely, the bingles were nicely scattered. The score:

AMUSEMENTS

Academy-Page Players in "The Marriage of Kitty," Lubin-Vaudeville,

The usual Monday night audience o first-nighters, augmented by several last night back to the field of farcical comedy, a style of entertainment in which they have been most successful. The vehicle selected for the company's re-entre into the realms of laughter is called "The Marrisge of Kitty," farcical in the extreme, and easily recognized as an adaptation from the French, where writers for the stage gather most of their pathos as well as their comedy from the divorce courts.

As the actor would say, "The Mar-riage of Kitty" is a tricky little farce, requiring the most delicate handling. requiring the most delicate handling, a play where every line counts and every situation means something. In this respect it is probably the 'most difficult offering that has yet taxed the "study" of the various members of the Page Company, and this fact appeared to appeal to last night's audience, which showed extreme good nature and much patience with those who groped for lines and came near the collapse stage in one or two scenes. who groped for lines and came near the collapse stage in one or two scenes. As stock performances go, however, and making allowance for several exceedingly long parts, it was a very creditable performance, several of the company distinguishing themselves in roles requiring the greatest finesse and most intolligent acting.

"The Marriage of Kitty" is a snappy, breezy little comedy in three acts. It sparkles with the brightest dialogue and possesses an interesting and sane plot. It has one merit not always found in farces, especially French farces—it grips one's interest at the farces—it grips one's interest at the rise of the curtain and does not let go till the final climax, while in the meantime one is entertained with the smartest of repartee and swiftly-mov ing incidents.

The little role was played by Miss Carroll McComas with her usual charm, and while not always letter perfect, or ties in a decorous and proper manner, Miss Louise Reed, as the maid, looked pretty and wivacious, and will doubtless become popular with the stock
